THE QUINTESSENTIAL SPRING DRESS

APRIL 5, 2016 - CURRENTLYCARO

Happy April, Friends! I just love this time of year as everything is in bloom and fashion starts to get so fun. I am all about a cute dress, especially ones that are feminine and flirty. This Parker dress is exactly that and most definitely the quintessential Spring dress.

LATE Afternoon

As Coachella approaches I've started to put together my outfits and looking for pieces that will fit into my festival style. When dressing for concerts and festivals I tend to stick to my general aesthetic but add in a few special touches with accessories like sunglasses. I have a vast collection of sunglasses that contain everything from classic shapes to bold bright shades perfect for punching up a neutral outfit. Despite my large array of shades, I always have a few special ones that I consistently favor each season. This year I found my statement eyewear at Sunglass Hut, picking out a pair of killer statement shades with just the right amount of sparkle and a classic cat-eye shape that always feels timelessly glamorous. I still have a few more pieces to round out my wardrobe but at least I've got my eyes covered and protected. Find your perfect pair of sunglasses at Sunglass Hut.

Paisley Blue Kaftan

Parker coverup c/o (also here) // K. Jacques sandals
Mar Y Sol tote (also love this one) // Julie Vos bangles

TGIF! I'm a sucker for anything paisley – and immediately fell in love with this paisley blue coverup when I saw it online. It has a subtle embellishment around the neckline that makes it even prettier in person. I wore this look for a day at the spa in Playa del Carmen. The spa experience was one of the most unique I've ever had. I was able to walk through a beautiful garden and choose herbs and flowers to incorporate into my massage. I was immediately drawn to rosemary which I found out is a natural mood booster, detoxifier, and anti-inflammatory. I've been using rosemary to cook at home ever since (it tastes super yummy on baked salmon or cod!) I've never been the best cook but have been trying to make an extra effort to cook/try new recipes when I'm home. There's nothing better than a homemade meal right?! I've been pulling recipes from Candice Kumai's book Clean Green Eats and Deliciously Ella's book (her raw brownies are delish.) Do you have any fave cooking websites or cookbooks that you reference for quick, healthy meals?
